

THE HOME, ITS PROBLEMS AND INTERESTS

DISTINCTIVE TABLEWARE FOR UP-TO-DATE HOSTESS

The housewife who seeks for novel and distinctive tableware in glass and fine china need not search in vain these days. There are new things in the general and specialty shops that are certain to appeal to the fancy and inclination of the woman who likes to keep up to date with regard to her table furnishings no less than in her dress and house appointments. For such a woman a tour of inspection is a genuine delight and such shopping is in the nature of an exploring trip with the most satisfactory of results.

No woman ever had too many tea sets and the popularity of 5 o'clock tea as a society function serves as excuse or incentive for the introduction of pretty and unusual designs, some original, others frank adaptations of models that flourished in other lands and in earlier days. Such a set is the one shown in the upper left-hand corner of the accompanying sketch. Fashioned of silver, with handle and tray of carved wood, it is a revival of an Athenian model and has met with much favor. The tray is a particularly fine piece of workmanship with polished surface and rim trimming of silver, while the wooden handles on the silver articles present a striking contrast to the gleaming metal. The hostess who uses such a set for the service of tea or chocolate may rest content that she has secured the latest and most attractive novelty.

During the past couple of seasons there has been developed a fancy for what might be termed "realistic china." The watermelon set pictured above belongs in this group. The case is of a fine quality of porcelain in the form, coloring and striped effects of the watermelon skin. One large plate, which fits over the cover, and twelve small plates comprise the set. All are of white porcelain adorned with realistic reproductions of slices of watermelon, pineapple, tomato and orange sets, just as realistic, are to be had, while for the lover of Welsh rabbit there come fancifully decorated plates incised in a china case that suggests an Edam cheese in shape and coloring.

The punch bowl, in the center of the group is a novelty that is reasonably certain of a ready welcome. As shown it is of cut glass in the form of a loving cup—this design being the most approed one nowadays for punch and lemonade receptacles—and the ladle is of silver with gold bowl and cut glass handle. It is mounted on a cut glass stand. Punch bowls of silver are fashioned in the same design and are greeted as an agreeable change from the regulation type.

On the realistic order, but more artistic than the watermelon set, is the strawberry set here portrayed. It consists of a large bowl of delicate china, supported on tiny legs, and ornamented with a design of strawberries and leaves in natural coloring. Miniature copies of the large bowl are used for individual service dishes, a dozen constituting a set.

A 1504 substitute for flower vases suitable for long-stemmed blossoms, and particularly the American Beauty rose, is the arrangement shown above. It consists of a cut glass bowl in which is inserted a wire stand of graduated height.

The base of the wire contrivance is sufficiently firm to withstand the weight of the roses, carnations, or whatever flowers are used, and when properly arranged the effect is very good.

Copenhagen ware is just the thing for the little folks. It comes in white and brown tints with postcard effect decoration and in addition to its merit of attractiveness it possesses another and stronger one—durability. It is good for the country home where decorated ware, especially in pronounced shades, has more of a call than in the city domicile.

Last but not least in the above sketch, particularly in striking color combinations, is the lobster set. The platter is in the form of a cabbage leaf in natural hue with lobster decoration. The design is duplicated in the service plates and completing the set is a little pot for the dressing or condiments in cabbage green with a tiny spoon having lobster claw handle.

All these examples and many more in the line of odd, fanciful tableware are at the command of the householder who would have them. Some, no doubt, are destined for fleeting popularity, but a few are likely to win a permanent place in the china cabinet or the glassware collection.

Yorkshire pottery is the term by which some gayly decorated ware is known in these parts. It is extremely popular and its grayish surface is almost hidden by the decoration in the form of huge clusters of grapes, preferably purple toned, and masses of roses, usually Jacks. A jardiniere, cheese and cracker dish, and a clove jug are the pieces shown above and they are typical specimens. Scotch pottery, somewhat on this order, is also popular just now, but it costs one-third more than the English variety.

The bonbon dish in the lower left and corner is an example of Florentine ware, fancied by those who have a liking for bright colorings and relief decoration. The tints in the pictured dish are pink and purple, clusters of grapes being displayed against a shell pink background.

Earlier in the season there were brought out by some enterprising experimenters specimens of glass table ware upon which decorations in floral designs and natural colorings were fired in the same way as for mineral paintings. Now we have current sets in a similar form of ornamentation. The large bowls and the accompanying smaller ones are of the finest quality of crystal, rimmed with gold and decorated with clusters of currants and leaves. They are dainty and pretty, in addition to being new.

Here is a smart symphony in green. The shirtwaist suit and parasol being of taffeta and the hat of fancy straw, trimmed with leaves. All are of the shade known as hunter's green. The hemstitching is done in white.

BRIDE IS ARRESTED ACCUSED OF THEFT

Girl Won by Football Player Batchelder.

EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGED

Said to Have Appropriated Funds of Employers Before Her Wedding.

READING, Pa., July 8.—The wedded bliss of Harry S. Batchelder, noted college football player, who gave up his law scholarship at Yale to come to Reading and wed pretty May Cassidy, cashier in a store here, has been rudely interrupted by the arrest of his young wife on the charge of embezzlement of $1,500 to $2,000 from her employers.

When the first warrant, issued by Magistrate Miller, was served on Mrs. Batchelder, an aunt entered bail in the sum of $1,000. Several hours later when she learned the full extent of the charges and the amount of the alleged shortage, she threw up the bond.

The young wife was re-arrested on a bail piece. Fortunately for her another bondsman was procured.

It is alleged that in the last three months she was cashier the young woman abstracted the sums she is charged with having embezzled from the bank deposits. She is said to have used two bankbooks for this purpose—one containing the actual deposits, which the firm never saw, the other containing figures she entered to correspond with her books. This is the book was for the inspection of the firm.

Harry S. Batchelder, of New York, was a Yale football champion, and it is said that in the game with Harvard a year ago he won Miss Cassidy's heart by his fine playing.

NATIONAL GUARD RENTS SITE FOR RIFLE RANGE

The National Guard of the District of Columbia, has leased what is known as the Baldwin tract of land for a period of five years, at an annual rental of $500. The grant was made by Mrs. George C. Lea, the owner of the property, to George H. Harries, in his official capacity as brigadier general commanding the District of Columbia militia. The property fronts on Hamilton Road, beyond Congress Heights. It will be used by the National Guard for a rifle range. The lease provides that General Harries or his successor in office shall have the privilege of purchasing the property, within five years, for $25,000.

The lease was filed by Major Walter D. Davidge, legal advocate general of the District militia.

IRISHMEN HOWL HEALY DOWN.

LONDON, July 8.—In a discussion of the Irish land bill in the house of commons yesterday afternoon, Timothy M. Healy (Nationalist) fiercely attacked John E. Redmond, the Irish leader, for selling his estate on the basis of twenty-four and a half years' purchase. His remarks were greeted with a prolonged uproar and cries of "Trotter!" Mr. Healy said the Nationalists had honored him (Healy) by turning him out of the party in December, 1900. This statement was fiercely resented by the Nationalists, and Mr. Healy, who was unable to proceed, left his seat.

Lived by Day in Style By Night a Highwayman

Chief of New "Automatic" Trio Boasts of Career of Robbery and Fashion. Booty Buried in Indiana.

CHICAGO, July 8.—Living in style by day at fashionable hotels and prowling by night to rob at the point of a revolver—such was the life led by the leader of a new "automatic" trio, Charles Pheloy, according to the confession he has made to the police of Cragin.

With a companion, William Erwing, Pheloy is held at the suburban police station while detectives are investigating holdups, safe blowings and traffic robberies charged against the members of the band.

Wounded to Death.

The third member of the alleged band, Truman H. Wilkinson, lies in St. Elizabeth's Hospital near the point of death with a bullet wound in his right lung.

The new band met its Waterloo Wednesday when John C. Miller, financial secretary of Local No. 17, of the Wood Workers' Union, was shot at the door of his home, 355 North Forty-second Avenue. In the fusillade Wilkinson was severely wounded.

Wilkinson, after remaining silent for hours concerning his fatal wound, made a complete confession of his career of crime and the identity and hiding place of his companions. A hasty raid followed on a room at 51 Wells Street, where Pheloy and Erwing were surprised and captured before they could bring into play an arsenal with which they had surrounded themselves. Later they told all.

Lived in Style.

Pheloy boasted of having lived at the Palmer House and Chicago Beach Hotel in the height of style under the name of McGovern. The three members of the band told the police that they had buried a fortune of $25,000 in Indiana. They admitted having held up a Northern Pacific train recently at Bramm, Minn., but said nothing of the shooting of the engine driver. They confessed to having shot a policeman last spring. The policeman is supposed to have been Sergeant McCarthy, of the North Avenue police station, who was wounded in the shoulder.

Series of Crimes.

Among other crimes acknowledged in the confession were these:

A saloon one block north of North Avenue and two blocks west of Wells Street was robbed. Bartender was found alone and $18.49 obtained.

Saloon four blocks west of the Lincoln Avenue car barns robbed on the night of June 20. Bartender and four customers forced to give up $32.

Held up a Mr. Crawford, 401 Lake Avenue, and took his valuables from him in the street at the point of a revolver.

Held up a bartender and eight men in a saloon at 208 Lincoln Avenue.

Held up a saloon in North Park Avenue two weeks ago, taking $5 from the bartender and three customers.

Big Jobs Only.

In addition Pheloy confessed to having robbed W. B. Zimmerman's jewelry store at Waukegan, getting jewelry valued at $3,000, which, he says, is buried near Waukegan. He also confessed to having robbed a Waukegan grocery of $10.60. Pheloy declared that he owed his capture to traveling with a "cheap man," referring to Wilkinson. It is his proud boast that he has always done "big jobs."

Pheloy deserted the army at Fort Douglas, Utah, five years ago, and was wounded in making his escape. He made his way to California, married the young woman whom he induced to nurse him and has ever since led a life of crime.

DR. OWENS RETIRES AS RESIDENT PHYSICIAN

Post at Georgetown University Hospital Assumed by Dr. Ray D. Adams.

Senior Resident Physician Samuel L. Owens, of the Georgetown University hospital staff, has retired from that institution, his term having expired. He is succeeded by Dr. Ray D. Adams.

Junior Resident Physician Dr. Abraham has also left the hospital, and his place has been filled by Dr. Mahlon Ashurst.

Both retiring physicians are young and popular, and widely known in Washington. Dr. Owens is a native of New Orleans. While attending the Medical School of Georgetown University, he won countless honors in athletic circles, and was captain of the track and field teams at the university one year, and an excellent football player and coach.

TEACHER DOWNS EAGLE AFTER TERRIFIC FIGHT

Wounded Bird Puts Up a Game Struggle for Its Life.

MERCER, Pa., July 8.—Prof. W. A. Rodgers, of Sandy Lick, in a terrific fight with a bald eagle at Fredonia, Mercer county. He was spending the day with his parents when he saw the bird flying about. Frantically he shot, he brought the eagle down with one shot by breaking its wing.

When Rodgers went to secure his prize the eagle attacked him, and for twenty minutes they had a battle royal. Prof. Rodgers' hands were badly lacerated by the bird's beak and claws. It was finally killed.

The eagle measured seven feet two and one-half inches from tip to tip, and had tarsi over an inch in length. This is the first bald eagle that has been killed in this section for many years. Prof. Rodgers will have the bird mounted.

HOT WEATHER MENUS WHICH MAY BE ENJOYED WITH IMPUNITY

Plain and Wholesome, But Delectable, Family Lunches Suggested by Expert Chefs for This Summer Weather.

Ever has mankind looked for the day when science and culinary art would solve the problem of what may be eaten in hot weather with relish and satisfaction, and at the same time with the guarantee that the after effects will not be disastrous to the health and comfort of the individual.

Everybody knows that a glass of milk, a sandwich, or something of the sort, may be taken with impunity. But few have learned the secret of how a wholesome lunch may be enjoyed even though the mercury soareth near the century mark.

"What shall we have for lunch?" is a question that has brought sorrow and misery to many a housekeeper. Seldom does she solve it in a manner to suit all, and little would be the wonder of her sisters if she gave up or broke down in the attempt.

The chef to the rescue.

But lo, the white-capped, immaculate hotel chef has come to the rescue. For a moment he has stopped in his difficult task of providing provender for several hundred persons to help his long-suffering brothers and sisters in their efforts to solve the problem.

To the chefs of several of the leading hotels and restaurants The Times put the question:

"What would you suggest for a family lunch, plain and wholesome, and suitable for hot weather?"

A Dainty Meal.

Here are their answers. From the New Willard comes the following menu:

Radishes. Olives. Sliced cold tongue and lamb. Asparagus, sauce vinaigrette. Deviled eggs. Lettuce salad. Lemon ice.

Rather More Elaborate.

The Raleigh thinks the following is a solution to the problem:

Strained chicken gumbo en tassa. Pimientos. Sautéed almonds. Soft shell crabs, sauce Remoulade. Chicken cutlets, a la Toulouse. New asparagus, sauce Mouseline. Biscuit glace. Retiours. Cafe.

Palatable and Inviting.

This, the palatable hot weather fare submitted by the chef of the Loekam:

Olives. Cold Consomme. Fried Soft Shell Crabs. Cold Roast Chicken. Lettuce and Tomatoes. Ice Cream. Fruits. Cakes.

A German Light Lunch.

From a German point of view, the following is recommended by the chef of Fritz Reuter's restaurant:

Cream of Asparagus. Radishes. Olives. Spring Onions. Frankfurters. Pork and Beans. Potato Salad or Sauerkraut. Cucumber Salad. Lettuce and Tomatoes with Mayonnaise Dressing. Canteloupe. Ice Tea. Watermelon.

Two Seafood Lunches.

Harvey's restaurant, famous throughout the country for its seafood, submits the two following menus:

No. 1.—Relish. Cucumbers. New Potatoes. White Leaves of Lettuce. Little Neck Clams. Canaps of Crab Flake. Cold Boiled Chicken. Cherry Tart. Coffee.

No. 2.—Green Turtle Soup. Norfolk Spots. Salad en Sucons. Lamb Chops. New Peas. Asparagus Tips. Vinaigrette. Potato Duchesse. Romaine Salad. Fruit on Saloon. Crackers and Cheese. Coffee.

Five Tempting Menus.

Five menus have been put together as follows by the chef of the Arlington, so that the public may have its choice:

No. 1.—Little Neck Clams. Consomme. Poullette. Frogs Legs. Asparagus. Green Peas. Stuffed Egg Plant. Spring Lamb. Roast Beef. Mint Sauce. New Potatoes. Green Peas. Tomatoes Mayonnaise.

Raspberries With Whipped Cream. Coffee. Cakes. Roquefort Cheese.

No. 2.—Little Neck Clams on Shell. Consomme in Cups. Olives. Filet of Sole Fried. Vin Blanc. Cucumbers. Potatoes Purcellenne. Fried Chicken. Southern Style. Spring Lamb. Roast Beef. Mint Sauce. New Potatoes. Green Peas. Tomatoes Mayonnaise.

Cakes. Cream. Coffee.

No. 3.—Little Neck Clams. Consomme Royale. Sea Bass. Meuniere. Cucumbers. Potatoes Natural. Soft-shell Crabs. Tartar Sauce. Fried Chicken. Southern Style. Corn Fritters. New Potatoes in Cream. Stuffed Tomatoes. Ice Cream.

Cakes. Cream. Coffee.

No. 4.—Crab Broth with Whipped Cream. Boiled Salmon. Hollandaise Sauce. Cucumbers. Potatoes Chateau. Frogs Legs and Rice. Sweet Breads. Pique.

Squab Chicken, Roasted. New Potatoes. String Beans in Cream. Lettuce Salad, French Dressing. Cantaloupe a la Lillian Russell. Cheese. Coffee.

No. 5.—Little Neck Clams. Crab Gumbo. Maitre d'hotel. Cucumber Salad. Broiled Mushrooms on Toast. Sweetbreads, broiled and roasted. Green Corn. French Artichokes a la vinaigrette. Ice Cream. Watermelon. Coffee.

BROTHERS AND SISTERS WED AT SAME HOUR

LEBANON, Pa., July 8.—Dr. T. A. Kurr, of Fredericksburg, and Margaret D. Manbeck, of Bethel, Berks county, were married at noon yesterday at the Manbeck home. At the same time Robert Manbeck, of Harrisburg, and Mary P. Kurr, of Rehrersburg, were married at the Kurr residence.

Dr. Kurr and Miss Kurr are brother and sister. So are the Manbecks.

BISHOP BURKE'S FAREWELL CALL.

ROME, July 8.—The Right Rev. Thomas M. Burke, Bishop of Albany, N. Y., was received yesterday in a most cordial farewell audience by Cardinal Gotti, prefect of the propaganda, who congratulated him on the management of his diocese and granted him all he requested from the propaganda. Bishop Burke, who leaves Rome Monday, is taking several editions for the dignitaries of his diocese.

VETERANS PREPARING TO GO TO ENCAMPMENT

Will Leave for Boston on Sunday, August 14—Large Contingent Anticipated.

Preparations are being made by local posts of the Grand Army of the Republic to attend the thirty-eighth annual encampment of the G. A. R., which is to be held in Boston during the week beginning on Monday, August 15.

Washington veterans will leave here on the morning of Sunday, August 14, for Boston. Though it has not been definitely determined as yet, it is expected that a large majority of veterans now living in Washington will go to the encampment. Representatives of the various auxiliaries of the Grand Army, composed of patriotic women, have also signified their intention to participate in the annual reunion.

Special Rates.

Special rates have been arranged by the local committee with passenger agents and traffic managers. The trip to Boston will be made with as little expense as can be reasonably expected.

The regular business of the encampment will not begin until the morning of Wednesday, August 17, in a meeting place which is yet to be determined. Headquarters will be established in the Hotel Vendome.

On Tuesday, August 16, the annual parade of old veterans will be held. The line will march promptly and every member of the Grand Army who can reach Boston by Tuesday morning is urged to do so that all may participate in the parade. A number of bands will accompany various posts to the encampment, and these, with music from Boston, will furnish war songs and stirring marches.

Council Meetings.

A meeting of the executive committee of the National Council of Administration will hold a meeting on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Hotel Vendome and the council will convene at 5 o'clock on the same afternoon.

Comrades of the Grand Army or their friends desiring information of any character in connection with the encampment or Grand Army matters are informed that they must communicate with Silas A. Barton, chairman of the committee on arrangements, Old South Building, Boston.

Every effort is to be put forth by Washington veterans to have a fine representation of Grand Army men in the local posts there are veterans who have not missed an encampment in many years. When the train pulls out on the morning of the 14th it will, unless all signs fail, take a crowd of venerable patriots who every year look forward to their meeting with old comrades and the never failing recitations of battles fought and won.
